

*The Dr. Ronald Avis Foundation at Temple Israel
Presents
A Zoom Conversation with Andrew Kass:
The Hidden Civil War*

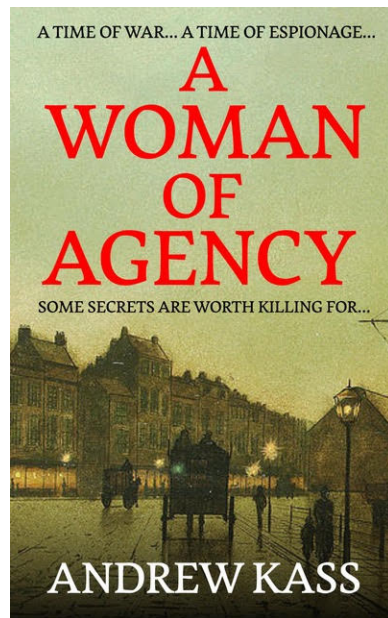

A young woman who is the daughter of a hidden Jew holds the key stopping to a Great Powers intrigue that could extend the American Civil War.

The story of Viola Ross, a young woman raised by her widower merchant father with the training of a son, sheds light on a little-known aspect of America's internal conflict. While serving with the American legation in 1863 London, Viola encounters an international plot to build warships for the Confederacy. Once she determines that investigating the murder of a French courier to expose the plot falls to her alone, she must push aside the conventions of Victorian England and Union antisemitism, often in disguise, to infiltrate the Confederates' merchant banker and rescue a captured colleague.

Looking forward to seeing you on Monday, March 30th at 7:30pm for the often surprising historical background of this story with author Andrew Kass.

RSVP to Bryn Biren msbunny7@aol.com}.

Set in England, the feminist Civil War spy thriller A WOMAN OF AGENCY has been published by Holand Press as a Kindle eBook, printable on demand.

Andrew Kass
andykass@siwriter.com
<https://www.siwriter.com>
X: @KassNdrw